Pat Shannan has been writing for THE AMERICAN FREE PRESS since its inception in 2001 and for the Spotlight the decade before that. He is the author of seven books, and his most recent book was released this Fall – EVERYTHING THEY EVER TOLD ME WAS A LIE*.

For the past 30 years Pat Shannan has reported “the other side of the news.” He was one of the first reporters to expose the federal rubout of Gordon Kahl in 1983. “A legalized murder,” he called it, “if there ever was one.”

While with “The People’s Radio Network” in Florida, Pat covered • the federal attacks on the Weaver family in Idaho • the Branch Davidian church in Texas • the Murrah Building in Oklahoma City • and the Freemen in Montana. The mainstream media never reported the truth about these and other government-instigated incidents, but Pat Shannan has always kept history in accord with the facts.

In 1998, he went on staff with Media Bypass magazine. As its roving investigative reporter, he submitted stories with the hidden facts behind the headlines that the mainstream news kept concealed. His “Pat Shannan’s Musings,” became a popular Media Bypass editorial column wherein he shared his thoughts on a variety of subjects.

Don't miss this opportunity to hear one of the hottest investigative journalists in America today.
